Hello CSCC tour alumni,

I just wanted to reiterate what a pleasure it was to meet all of you. It was a fantastic learning experience, albeit an intense one! Gary and his team did an amazing job at putting together a great tour this year. All of you helped to make learning on this trip even more enjoyable.

Below is my business card information that I meant to pass out on the tour. My particular office works with the federal government interagency team to resolve unnecessary or overly burdensome restrictions on U.S. agricultural exports. However, I am also in contact with other colleagues that offer export assistance such as export promotion or market intelligence. If you ever need any of our services, please do not hesitate to contact me.

I wish all of you the best of luck in your future endeavors, and I hope our paths cross again someday.

Greetings,

We are now a week out for our tour. The outlook for our tour next week is to have hot temperatures on Tuesday and Thursday. Both days will see a range of 98 to 102 degrees. On Wednesday we will be heading into the Salinas Valley where the temperature will be cool. On Tuesday you can wear shorts, but you will need closed toe shoes, such as tennis shoes or a light weight hiking shoe/boot.. On Wednesday you can also wear shorts in the morning, but you might want to change to long pants at lunch time. Thursday will be okay for shorts. Please remember to bring a lightweight jacket, sunblock, a hat and a notebook.

If you are planning to ride the tour bus from Sacramento to Visalia on Monday please make sure your name is on the bus list (attached). If you are not, please contact me. Likewise, if your name is on the list, but you have made other arrangements to get to Visalia, please contact me. We need each of you to be at the Sacramento Farm Bureau office at 12:00 noon, as the bus needs to depart by 12:30 pm on Monday. Their address information is in the attached logistics document. (It is just north of the downtown area off of the Garden Highway.) We have permission to park our cars in their parking lot and their security staff will be there each night. If you get delayed please call Bob McClain as soon as possible to let him know about your situation. His cell phone is Ex. 6

For those that are flying in from the East Coast, if you have flight delays, please call me to advise of your situation and when your new arrival time will be. Please call my number shown below.

I will have a table set up at the hotel on Monday afternoon so you can check in for the tour when you arrive at Visalia. Our Orientation dinner will start with a reception Monday afternoon at 4:30 pm at our hotel in Visalia. Dinner will start at 5:30 pm.

Please let me know if you have any questions regarding the tour.

I look forward to meeting each of you next Monday.

Regards,
Gary

David,

A few items of interest attached

- 1) A proposal from EPA staff regarding revised EPA methods that could be used for BEs
- 2) A document called consideration of usage information—my understanding is that this was written by the Services. It describes concerns with using usage information
- 3) The PDFs are documents describing some of the usage information we have.
  - a. Refined use patterns was a pilot for the 3 chemicals, however we ultimately could not get agreement from the Services to use the data.
  - b. The Diazanon PDF describes the usage data we have for diazanon
- 4) The powerpoint on pesticide usage is a presentation EPA provided in Sept 2016 that began a dialogue with the services on sources or data and incorporation for the pilot projects, that we ultimately could not get agreement for.

All these items should be considered interagency deliberative.

Thanks,
Nancy

TWG Colleagues,

Attached are the draft exposure and use assessment (with supplemental document), draft hazard information summaries, and the draft peer review charge questions, for the five PBT chemicals subject to EPA review under TSCA. We have a hard deadline to put the documents out for public comment on Monday, June 18. Therefore, we ask that you limit any comments this week to the charge questions. We would need any comments on the charge questions by COB this Thursday in order to incorporate them into the documents for Monday's release.

However, we don't formally initiate the peer review until June 29. Therefore, if the TWG needs more time to review and comment on the charge, and/or would like to provide comments on the other documents before the peer review starts, please send any comments to Susanna Blair, at blair.susanna@epa.gov, by COB Monday, June 25. Of course we will consider comments after that date, but likely will not be able to get them to the peer reviewers before their review starts.

Thank you for engaging with us on this effort.

All the best,

Jeff

Hi Stu,

It was great talking with you last weekend and my trip to DC is planned for next week, Jan 29-31. I ended up cancelling the flight I had made when I spoke to you, and re-booked to be in town through Wednesday, so if it still works I'd love to meet up with you while I am there.

Also, I'd love to get your help arranging a meeting at EPA to discuss Superfund issues in San Juan County, Utah. I will be traveling with one or two tribal leaders from the Ute Mtn Ute Tribe and Navajo Nation who would be very interested in discussing this issue with the right folks.

The best time for us during our trip to meet with EPA would be on Wednesday, Jan 29th anytime before 4 PM.

Thanks and it will be great to see you next week,

Thank you, Nancy.

I have communicated the scheduling challenges to Gavin Noyes. As I mentioned, he has been a close personal friend of mine for over 20 years. His focus in this meeting is to educate himself and members of the Indian tribes in the area about the opportunities for uranium remediation through the superfund program. Bears Ears is not on the agenda.

Your email address for him is correct. I will also pass along Charlotte's email to him.

Thanks again for helping make the connections.

Chalk it up to NOAA's temperamental gmail system, but I am unable to find my last email exchange with you regarding the group of Native Americans from Utah that are interested in discussing the potential of superfund status for their lands contaminated with uranium waste.

Below, my college friend Gavin Noyes runs through the people in his group. I clarified that they are available on Wednesday, January 31.

Hi Stu,

Thanks for your help in trying to set up a meeting over at EPA, and I apologize for the brevity of my emails this past week. I was conducting job interviews for 3 days straight and got behind on other things.

I want to let you know that I have informed several of the Tribal leaders that we are trying to set up a meeting about uranium contamination and cleanup, and this is among the highest priority to the local leaders in San Juan County. I probably won't be able to confirm folks, until I know a meeting time on Wednesday, but here is who I am traveling with. 1) Malcolm Lehi, former Tribal Council of the Ute Mtn Ute Tribe. The only operating uranium mill in the United States sits on his reservation about 1 mile from his home and just this past year they had to replace the entire reservation's water supply due to contamination of the groundwater from this mill. 2) Navajo Nation President Russell Begaye. I spoke with the Attorney General of the Navajo Nation this AM and she will see if the President might be able to adjust his schedule to attend on Wednesday as he will still be here. Two other individuals I am traveling with are Davis Filfred, Utah representative on the Navajo Nation council and Regina Lopez-Whiteskunk, format council of the Ute Mountain Ute Tribe. All are very knowledgeable and very interested in this issue.

Feel free to forward the above list of possible attendees and I look forward to seeing you and catching up with you soon!

Gavin

Commissioner Miller,

Please see the attached response to the letter your office transmitted to USDA earlier today. Also attached is an updated USDA-TAHC MOU for your records.

We will be following up with your office to identify potential dates and times to discuss and consider the proposals identified in your letter.

Please let me know if you have any questions in the interim. - dudley

Nancy,

I know you are probably too busy to come to our December ORACBA Science, Policy and Risk Forum but I wanted to reach out to you just in case you have time to make the short hike over here to the South Building. Dr. Ragnar Löfstedt will be presenting a Forum on "The Changing Regulatory Environment in Europe." He will discuss European regulation and the use of evidence based and risk informed policymaking in a post-Brexit world. He also will discuss various aspects of risk analysis and changing views on uncertainty analysis post-Brexit. I took a peek at his slides and he will be discussing at least one pesticide risk.

I am arranging a small group to meet with him for lunch. You may be interested in joining us for that. Perhaps he could give us an overview of the recommendations that came out of last June's 2017 Cambridge Risk and Uncertainty Conference (See <http://www.sra.org/events/cambridge-risk-and-uncertainty-conference-ruc>)

Linda

Dear David

We very much appreciate your hospitality yesterday and the opportunity to view the draft Biological Opinions. I got a much better sense of our options and will be working with senior leaders here to formulate a set of limited options for Administrator Pruitt to consider. Obviously, we look forward to working with you on this complex issue. Any insights would be very welcome.

I list a larger set of options below, one of which may be your preferred approach. Your thoughts on these would be extremely valuable, as well as any new ideas.

Cheers!

Pruitt wins Fischer's support for Wehrum after RFS meeting

By Eric Wolff and Anthony Adragna

10/17/2017 06:18 PM EDT

Sen. Deb Fischer (R-Neb.) said she would back the nomination of Bill Wehrum to be EPA air chief after meeting with Administrator Scott Pruitt to discuss his recent moves that had angered biofuels supporters in Congress.

Pruitt offered no concrete policy promises to the seven Midwestern senators who gathered in Sen. Chuck Grassley's office, according to the lawmakers, but he appeared to ease their fears that he would follow through on his proposal to reduce EPA's mandates on biodiesel volumes or take other actions to undermine the Renewable Fuel Standard.

Fischer, who had said earlier Tuesday she was unsure whether she would support Wehrum's nomination, offered her backing after her meeting with Pruitt. "I am," she said, when asked if she planned to vote for Wehrum.

In addition to Fischer and Grassley, the meeting was attended by Sens. Joni Ernst (R-Iowa), John Thune (R-S.D.), Mike Rounds (R-S.D.), Pat Roberts (R-Kansas) and Ben Sasse (R-Neb.).

"The administrator has made the commitment that we'll continue those discussions," Fischer said. "He fully understands the importance to the United States when it comes to biodiesel and biofuel."

But Ernst, who like Fischer had said earlier on Tuesday the meeting would determine whether she would support Wehrum to run EPA's air office, which oversees the RFS, appeared skeptical about Pruitt's support for biofuels, and she would not commit to supporting the nominee.

"Administrator Pruitt again claimed today that he will not do anything to undermine the program. However, we have heard this before. We now need to see it," she said in a statement.

Republicans have only a one-seat edge in the Senate Environment and Public Work Committee and with opposition from Democrats expected, the loss of one vote would sink Wehrum's nomination.

Thune, the No. 3 Republican in the Senate, said he believed the lawmakers had delivered a clear message about supporting biofuels to Pruitt, who has long been close to the oil industry.

"We have a big enough group that is passionate about these issues that I think we can get their attention when we need to," Thune told POLITICO.

But Sasse said Pruitt was still in the deliberative process of the rulemaking.

"He can't give us any assurances at this stage," he said.

Grassley told reporters he reminded Pruitt of President Donald Trump's promise to him in August that he supported corn ethanol.

"You can get in the weeds about what you want to do or not do in the way of policy, but this is about a promise the president made," Grassley said.

The senators also said they had discussed the possibility of allowing year-round sales of 15 percent ethanol, whether through EPA regulation or through a bill Fischer has proposed.

"The administrator can possibly look at it through action within the EPA," Fischer said. "I think legislation is the best way to go."

Pruitt brought his top aides to the meeting, including policy office head Samantha Dravis, chief of staff Ryan Jackson, special adviser for air Mandy Gunasekara and the head of intergovernment relations office, Troy Lyons.

Subject: FYI - USDA Biotechnology Coordinator Selected - Please share!

I am pleased to announce that Dr. Fan-Li Chou has been selected as the Biotechnology Coordinator for USDA. In her new role, Dr. Chou will provide leadership, coordination, and strategic planning of USDA's biotechnology policy and will interact with decision makers in USDA, in other Federal agencies, and in Congress on the development and implementation of biotechnology policy. She will act as a contact point for biotechnology information with industry, non-governmental organizations, other Federal and State government agencies, farmers, and other stakeholders.

Dr. Chou will represent USDA at national and international scientific and/or policy fora that helps to advance public understanding of Department policies and programs. She will represent USDA, when necessary, in domestic and international negotiations involving biotechnology policy.

Dr. Chou will serve as the Executive Secretary of USDA's Biotechnology Coordinating Committee (BCC) as well as the Designated Federal Official for the Secretary's Advisory Committee on Biotechnology upon re-chartering.

Dr. Chou's background is outstanding. She is currently the Deputy Director of the New Technologies and Production Methods Division with the Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS) at the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA). Her Division promotes the adoption and implementation of science-based, transparent and well-functioning regulatory regimes to prevent and remove non-science-based barriers to the use and trade agricultural biotechnology products. From 2010 to 2016, Dr. Chou was the Senior Science Adviser in the Division, providing scientific and regulatory analysis on the use of innovative technologies, such as biotechnology in agriculture and the associated trade implications. Fan-Li is a recognized technical and policy expert in agricultural biotechnology and phytosanitary issues with extensive experience in bilateral and multilateral international negotiations. Her skills include managing partnerships between the public, industry, international organizations, foreign governments, and U.S. government agencies. Prior to her current position, Fan-Li served as Trade Director at USDA Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service and was responsible for addressing phytosanitary issues related to international agriculture trade. Dr. Chou holds a Ph.D. in molecular biology and genetics from the University of Pittsburgh, and completed her post-doctoral fellowship at the Scripps Research Institute and University of California, San Diego. In 2005, Fan-Li was selected as an American Association for the Advancement of Science Diplomacy Fellow. She currently resides in Bethesda, Maryland with her husband, two daughters and her mother.

Please welcome Dr. Chou!

Hi Nancy,

This might not be in your bailiwick, but do you know who is representing EPA in the absence of Administrator Pruitt with regard to the Executive Order 13790, dated April 28, 2017 which established the Rural Prosperity Task Force? I believe a couple of meetings have occurred and I was asked who might be at the table when Administrator Pruitt is not available.

Thanks in advance!

David,

Thank you for reaching out. Its been on my list to connect with you. I'm out on Travel next Mon- Thursday so a discussion tomorrow or Friday would be ideal.

A few options for me:

Thursday: 12-1, after 4:30

Friday: I think after 3pm will work, although I may have one more meeting.

Any chance the is a common window with you and Erik?

Regards,

Nancy

Nancy,

Rob is available on the 5th or 7th, but neither date is good for all the attendees that Rob suggested. Sheryl is available on the 5th but not the 7th and the converse is true for Rebekah. I realize now that I don't know whether you are available on either the 5th or 7th.

Commissioner Miller,

Please see the attached response to the letter your office transmitted to USDA earlier today. Also attached is an updated USDA-TAHC MOU for your records.

We will be following up with your office to identify potential dates and times to discuss and consider the proposals identified in your letter.

Please let me know if you have any questions in the interim. - dudley

Dear all -

Our people at NOAA did not realize that they were supposed to send these to you. So my front office asked me to send these comments to you all. These are comments from my Office of Protected Resources and NOAA General Counsel. as well as comments coming from NOAA.

If you can please forward these comments to Nancy Beck I would appreciate it since you said she was leading this document review process.

I would be happy to talk to whomever you want at EPA about these comments.

Thanks so much -

Hi Nancy,

Sadly, my last day at EPA is tomorrow, Friday April 27th. It's been a great 19 year run here, but I have an opportunity to manage a group in USDA's Economic Research Service and it is perfect for a next step in my career.

Amy Lamson will be the Acting RMD Division Director starting Monday, April 30. Could you please include her on your notices starting next week?

While we never met in person it's been nice working with you virtually!

The first step is for the registrants to work with us and agree to changes. Its hard to predict the time for this, but when parties are aligned, things can move quickly. Once agreement is reached, the registrants would need to provide the revised labels to us for review and then the review process can happen rather quickly (days).

On Q 1, we are trying to get some clarity from DOJ. We need both.

On Q 2, we were thinking from Rick K to Donna W, as that was the level of previous communication. With a cc: to Levenbach, Oliver, Wheeler, and Comstock. We welcome other thoughts.

Please review the attached draft letter from EPA to reinitiate consultation on the three pesticides of recent interest.

This is a close hold document and should not be distributed.

EPA would appreciate a “quick turnaround”.

Thank you

Pruitt wins Fischer's support for Wehrum after RFS meeting
By Eric Wolff and Anthony Adragna

10/17/2017 06:18 PM EDT

Sen. Deb Fischer (R-Neb.) said she would back the nomination of Bill Wehrum to be EPA air chief after meeting with Administrator Scott Pruitt to discuss his recent moves that had angered biofuels supporters in Congress.

Pruitt offered no concrete policy promises to the seven Midwestern senators who gathered in Sen. Chuck Grassley's office, according to the lawmakers, but he appeared to ease their fears that he would follow through on his proposal to reduce EPA's mandates on biodiesel volumes or take other actions to undermine the Renewable Fuel Standard.

Fischer, who had said earlier Tuesday she was unsure whether she would support Wehrum's nomination, offered her backing after her meeting with Pruitt. "I am," she said, when asked if she planned to vote for Wehrum.

In addition to Fischer and Grassley, the meeting was attended by Sens. Joni Ernst (R-Iowa), John Thune (R-S.D.), Mike Rounds (R-S.D.), Pat Roberts (R-Kansas) and Ben Sasse (R-Neb.).

"The administrator has made the commitment that we'll continue those discussions," Fischer said. "He fully understands the importance to the United States when it comes to biodiesel and biofuel."

But Ernst, who like Fischer had said earlier on Tuesday the meeting would determine whether she would support Wehrum to run EPA's air office, which oversees the RFS, appeared skeptical about Pruitt's support for biofuels, and she would not commit to supporting the nominee.

"Administrator Pruitt again claimed today that he will not do anything to undermine the program. However, we have heard this before. We now need to see it," she said in a statement.

Republicans have only a one-seat edge in the Senate Environment and Public Work Committee and with opposition from Democrats expected, the loss of one vote would sink Wehrum's nomination.

Thune, the No. 3 Republican in the Senate, said he believed the lawmakers had delivered a clear message about supporting biofuels to Pruitt, who has long been close to the oil industry.

"We have a big enough group that is passionate about these issues that I think we can get their attention when we need to," Thune told POLITICO.

But Sasse said Pruitt was still in the deliberative process of the rulemaking.

"He can't give us any assurances at this stage," he said.

Grassley told reporters he reminded Pruitt of President Donald Trump's promise to him in August that he supported corn ethanol.

"You can get in the weeds about what you want to do or not do in the way of policy, but this is about a promise the president made," Grassley said.

The senators also said they had discussed the possibility of allowing year-round sales of 15 percent ethanol, whether through EPA regulation or through a bill Fischer has proposed.

"The administrator can possibly look at it through action within the EPA," Fischer said. "I think legislation is the best way to go."

Pruitt brought his top aides to the meeting, including policy office head Samantha Dravis, chief of staff Ryan Jackson, special adviser for air Mandy Gunasekara and the head of intergovernment relations office, Troy Lyons.

Yes, let's get our policy team on the call.

I have a block of time from 11 to 2, which is a miracle the way this week has gone. Pick a time and let's talk. Probably easier if we call you because we are in Silver Spring tomorrow and working out of our offices there for the first time.

Mark,

Thanks for the email. I would be curious to know if there is anything FAS can do regarding the Taiwan MRLs. I'm still not sure I understand why they are different than CODEX, but it was clear on the tour that these values are having implications for what we export. Alex and Karissa cover our international issues so I'm looping them into the discussion as well.

Many thanks,
Nancy

Hello CSCC tour alumni,

I just wanted to reiterate what a pleasure it was to meet all of you. It was a fantastic learning experience, albeit an intense one! Gary and his team did an amazing job at putting together a great tour this year. All of you helped to make learning on this trip even more enjoyable.

Below is my business card information that I meant to pass out on the tour. My particular office works with the federal government interagency team to resolve unnecessary or overly burdensome restrictions on U.S. agricultural exports. However, I am also in contact with other colleagues that offer export assistance such as export promotion or market intelligence. If you ever need any of our services, please do not hesitate to contact me.

I wish all of you the best of luck in your future endeavors, and I hope our paths cross again someday.

Thank you for reaching out. Its been on my list to connect with you. I'm out on Travel next Mon- Thursday so a discussion tomorrow or Friday would be ideal.

A few options for me:

Thursday: 12-1, after 4:30

Friday: I think after 3pm will work, although I may have one more meeting.

Any chance the is a common window with you and Erik?

James Uthmeier, Deputy General Counsel at Commerce, has been involved with these issues on the legal front.

That is wonderful. We are also hoping to engage with Commerce, but do not know who the POC is over there for these issues. Do you have any ideas? Once we locate someone at Commerce we will schedule an initial call or meeting to discuss further steps.

Looking forward to working with you!

Sarah –

Thank you for reaching out on this issue that is very important to agriculture. ESA is front of mind at USDA so we work on it as a 3-person team - Stephen Vaden, Acting General Counsel; myself for the Office of the Secretary, and; Sheryl Kunickis, Director of USDA's Office of Pest Management Policy.

We would be very pleased to join the conversation.

Kindly,

Rebeckah Freeman Adcock

Hi Brian,

Hope all is well. The Administrator and staff here at EPA are interested in having a discussion with USDA regarding broad ESA issues that have been brought to our attention. Who in your shop would be interested in joining that conversation? Appreciate any time you have.

Best,

Dang-- you have a good eye. Thank you for flagging that. We will have to change it during interagency review.

Thanks Sheryl.
